Because you're destined to be ineffective and mediocre in front of audiences—no matter how experienced a speaker or presenter you may be.

Why? Because you're immersed in subtle, ancient cultural influences that are responsible for the epidemic of poor audience leadership in our society.

Without knowing what they are, you will continue to make unwitting mistakes that cost you your reputation and your business.

Furthermore, brain research has released critical never-before-known information about what the BRAINS in an audience need to learn fast and remember long--and it's changing the landscape of speaking and presenting forever. As an expert, you must know this information because without it, you are perpetuating archaic methods of working with audiences. You cannot afford to be left behind--not in this economy and not in any economy.

To cut through the clutter, you must know how to move a room full of prospects, peers and clients into lifelong "raving fans"--because it's the way of the future (more and more, people want to be uplifted and inspired, especially with the driest material). And when your audience has turned into raving fans, they tend to stay raving fans for a long time...

In this teleclass, you'll learn:

- What the hidden influences are that destine you to be ineffective with audiences, and how they infiltrate every speech, talk and seminar you give.
- What's beyond them: a New Paradigm of Audience Leadership. You'll be introduced to the New Paradigm and why it is the only path a successful presenter can afford to take into the future.
- That in the New Paradigm, you're not a "speaker," "lecturer," "presenter," or "seminar leader"...you're something so much more—and just knowing what that is will change who you are and what you do with groups.
- You'll learn and practice a fundamental technique for getting an audience's interest within seconds--that you can use the very next day.
- You will leave with know-how that will explode your market value and give you an unprecedented competitive edge.
- And throughout it all you'll have FUN!
